

The Caudata.org Grant

in association with the Amphibian Ark

Caudata.org is an online community of caudate enthusiasts to promote learning and accurate information exchange about this taxon. The Caudata.org grant is an annual award utilizing funds raised by the group to support conservation of caudates. There is a strong preference for supporting projects that involve biologists from the species' native country. Grant amounts vary annually based on the year's fundraising success.

2010 grant amount: $1000

2010 grant application deadline: 1 May

2010 grant award date: 1 June

Application requirements:

1. Name and institutional affiliation of applicant(s) and principal investigator(s)
2. Title of project
3. Salamander species involved (photos are nice!)
4. 1-2 paragraphs (<300 words) non-technical project overview including brief background, methods, and anticipated outcomes, with emphasis on actions utilizing these funds
5. Budget overview (in US$) with what our money covers and where the rest is coming from
6. Timeline of work and dissemination of results

Total application not to exceed 1 page, submitted in English as Microsoft Word doc or pdf to 2010-grant@caudata.org. Progress reports must be submitted every year on award date until completion of the project.